Summer Produces 46 Days Of 90 Degrees; City Records

July's Heat Wave Was Sustained 22 Days, June 16 and August Eight; Is Hottest in Kingston Annals

August, which got off to a cool start, appears now bent on making this a summer of unprecedented heat and its eight hot days to date, added to those of June and July brings a total of 46 days in which the mercury has reached 90 and above, according to records of the city engineer's office.

July produced a sustained heat wave of 22 days with temperatures of 90 and above, June had 16, and every day this month except Aug. 1 brought temperatures of 90 and above.

Semon Met Death Through Drowning

Accidental Death Verdict Given by Coroner About Aged Man

Louis A. Semon, 79, whose body was found near Port Ewen about noon Monday, met death by drowning, Coroner Ernest A. Kelly said today. The coroner added in his verdict that death was accidental.

Semon, a retired railroad conductor whose home is at 165 O'Neill street in this city, had been staying at the home of his son, Louis A. Jr., in Port Ewen and was reported missing Monday, August 1, at 1 p. m., according to the state police who organized a search for the man later that same afternoon.

The aged man's body was discovered by his grandson, Raymond Semon, in the ice pond at the Roger Elmdorf farm yesterday noon, state police said. The pond is located just two miles from 9W where Semon was last seen alive. Coroner Kelly said today Semon (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

Stores Cooperate In 2-Day Sales; Fall Items Shown

Almost all retail stores in this city are cooperating in the city-wide Kingston Days on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Purpose of the sale is to introduce new fall merchandise at bargain prices and to afford an opportunity for clearance of summer stock. As most stores have already held their summer clearances in late July, the spotlight will be on fall items, offered at low prices for the two days only as a means of acquainting the public with the new stock, according to Gordon Peterson, chairman of the sponsoring Retail Merchants' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

All regional associations in the uptown, central and downtown sections of the city are cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce in conducting the Kingston Days sale.

Merchants today expressed confidence that with clear weather continuing a large number of city and county residents will turn out for the sale. Some merchants added that the sale should also attract a number of persons vacationing in this area. (Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

Late Bulletin

The county health department today reported the 17th case of polio in the county.

The new case reported today was a six-year-old girl in the town of Rochester, who has been sent back to New York for hospitalization.

Meanwhile, it was reported at Kingston Hospital that the two sisters from the vicinity of Accord and their cousin who have been undergoing treatment for the disease for several days, are improving.

The two sisters, in the younger age group, are residents of the county and their cousin is from the metropolitan area, authorities said.

100,000 Homeless Are Big Problem Before Ecuador

Government Asks Tents Be Sent to Sections Devastated by Earthquake

Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 9 (AP)—The government faced the problem today of housing 100,000 persons made homeless by Friday's earthquake which destroyed 50 communities and caused thousands of deaths.

A spokesman for President Galo Plaza Lasso said the government had not yet been able to compile a death list, but estimated that the toll might not exceed between 2,000 and 4,000. Previous estimates ranged up to 6,000.

The president announced Sunday that, in the town of Pelileo alone some 3,200 had perished. Plaza told newsmen that in the ravaged city of Ambato 75 per cent of the houses still standing must be torn down.

He said the government had asked the American republics to rush tents to the area and that the United States already was sending emergency shipments of canned foods.

Plaza said his previous estimate of $20,000,000 property damage might go much higher. The government plans a survey to get a definite figure.

The president's secretary, Miguel Albornoz, said the government plans to float a 20-year bond issue to get reconstruction going.

Most of the victims in the town of Pelileo were caught in buildings that collapsed. Landslides from the mountains accounted for others.

Farmhouses were flattened and fields were ripped apart by huge crevasses.

Many other Pelileo victims died in a flood. A landslide blocked a drainage canal and the waters trapped many persons. Others (Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

Democrats Abandon Plans To Expand Social Security

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Democratic leaders virtually abandoned hope today for any social security expansion this year. They called this stand realistic, even though the House Ways and Means Committee yesterday announced its approval of legislation to blanket 11,000,000 more persons under old age insurance.

The committee, in its most important social security action in a decade, decided also to boost old age insurance benefits by 50 to 150 per cent in some categories, and to increase the payroll taxes to finance the expanded program.

Under the legislation, continuing presently scheduled increases, the payroll taxes will jump from $1,800,000,000 to about $2,700,000,000 in 1950.

But one top Democrat told reporters there is little, if any, hope that the legislation will be passed by the Senate before 1950, although a drive will be launched to press it through the House this year.

Lie Offers Program to Reduce War

U.N. Secretary Gives His Fourth Yearly Report Which Is Described as Most Optimistic Progress Is Cited

Lifting of Berlin Block Is Biggest Factor, He Says

Lake Success, Aug. 9 (AP)—U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie has advanced a six-point program to strengthen the world peace organization and reduce the dangers of war.

The program is outlined in Lie's fourth annual report which was published last night. The report, by far the most optimistic yet written by the secretary-general, said the fear of war has definitely decreased since his last report.

Lie called the past 24 months "a year of progress towards a more peaceful world." Biggest factor in the improved atmosphere, he said, was the lifting of the Berlin blockade.

At the top of his six-point program was continued consultation and conciliation among the big powers. He offered to help bring the East and West together in such outstanding world problems as the German, Austrian and Japanese peace treaties, atomic control and creation of an international police force.

"It is essential," he said, "for the great powers to keep in contact, to talk things over, and seriously to negotiate with one another."

His other points dealt primarily with controversies before the U.N. such as the disposition of Italy's pie-war colonies, the admission of new members and the creation of a 300-man U.N. guard force to aid peace missions abroad.

One of the hottest issues which comes up in the general assembly in September, Lie jumped into the big power squabble with a proposal that the colonies be placed under direct U.N. trusteeship, with a single administrator responsible directly to the trusteeship council.

Insists on Trusteeship Russia has insisted on a direct trusteeship over the colonies with a council of commissionaires administering. The United States and Britain have pushed a plan which would place the colonies under trusteeship, with individual territories being administered separately by Britain, Italy and France.

On the question of admission of new members, Lie urged the admission of all 14 countries whose applications are awaiting approval. Some of these countries have been kept out by Soviet vetoes and some by opposition from the western majority on the security council.

The creation of the guard force is Lie's own idea. He is pressing for action despite Soviet charges that the proposal violates the U.N. charter. The United States has given its support to the plan.

Lie's other two points are concerned with economic problems. First, he urged the U.N. to give priority to the world's food problem.

Secondly, he called on member nations to take full advantage of the machinery of the U.N. and its (Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

Vandenberg Proposes Half Cut In Western Europe Arms Cost

Would Have Congress Put Up Cash and Authorizations for Year

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) today proposed a 50 per cent cash reduction in the first year's cost of the western European arms program.

The Michigan Senator suggested to Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson that about $580,000,000 be furnished in cash by Congress—with the balance in contract authorizations (to be met by later appropriations) which would not be charged against the current budget.

Vandenberg said he believes the budget President Truman sent Congress for the 1950 fiscal year carries funds for European military aid which would cover almost all the money cost of the first year.

But Johnson appearing before a joint meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committee, argued that the full amount—$1,450,000,000—was needed to safeguard the security of the United States.

Said Johnson: "Should western Europe be overtaken by a hostile power and should its vast industrial and manpower potentials be added to those of such an aggressor, the United States would stand isolated in a dangerously insecure period."

United States security, therefore, demands that Europe be safeguarded.

"A military vacuum in western Europe," Johnson said, "is a great temptation to the Soviet Union and international Communism."

He told Senators that it would take months and years for this country to mobilize equipment, train and transport troops across the Atlantic.

In the meantime, he said, the forces of western Europe must be able to resist any enemy.

"But these forces hold the lines of collective defense with their present inadequate equipment composed of old and worn out material," he said.

Johnson took notice that an objection has been raised that American aid can be effective only if it is provided under integrated plans and a unified organization for the defense of western Europe.

He said that this already exists in the Western Union Defense Fund.

Unified plans, he said, are being continually developed by the five nations in the Western Union pact. Johnson said these five nations—England, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands—are now and must continue to be the hard core of any European defense. They are the nations, he said, which, in the event of a major aggression would have to bear the brunt of the main attack.

Johnson in defending the $1,450,000,000 figure, said it wasn't simply a number pulled out of the air.

"It is the dollar total of the cost of specific items of equipment needed for a definite number of Army, Navy and Air Force units," he said.

"Any reduction in the total will necessarily cause a curtailment in (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

Po'keepsie Council Approves Housing

Aldermen Give Green Light to $2,000,000 State Contract

Poughkeepsie aldermen have given the go ahead signal to that city's state-approved $2,000,000 housing and slum clearance project.

In an adjourned meeting held Monday night, the Common Council adopted without opposition a resolution approving the project between the state of New York, the city and the city's housing authority. The resolution authorized the mayor's city chamberlain (clerk) and treasurer to sign the contract, which already has been filed with and approved by the state housing commissioner, the deputy city chamberlain reported today.

Of the 17 council members, 10 voted in favor of the contract, six were absent and one declined to vote. The fact that there was six absentees does not indicate opposition, the deputy chamberlain reported, since all of them—three Democrats and three Republicans—were away on vacation at the time of the meeting.

Slovakian Catholics Aid Priest Threatened With Arrest by Reds

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 9 (AP)—Police have put down a "revolt" in a Slovakian town where Catholics defending their priest from threatened arrest had set up their own local government, a Communist weekly news magazine reported today.

Aroused villagers led by a band of fighting peasant women had beaten up the chairman of the Communist-controlled local executive board, Svet Place, weekly magazine of the Czechoslovak Communist party said.

Two persons were reported wounded and "several" arrested in the incident at Strenco, in northwestern Slovakia.

The magazine gave no precise date for the clash but said the offending village had its electric power cut off for several weeks, apparently as punishment.

The attack is in the Zilina district of Slovakia where fighting between Catholic villagers and Communist-controlled police broke out about six weeks ago. Whether this was a new incident or a report on details of former fighting now coming to light could not be definitely established.

(Vatican sources reported last week that new clashes had occurred in Slovakia, which is mostly Catholic.)

Svet Place gave this account of the incident: "The township of Strenco beat up the chairman of a Communist-controlled local executive board from a neighboring town 'who was just passing through their village.'"

"The attack started because the Strenco villagers claimed they heard the official was going to arrest their priest."

"Thereupon the women of Strenco gathered in front of their parish to defend him. They were joined by some men armed with flails and scythes."

"The aroused villagers then began attacking every automobile which passed through the village. When security police and workers' militiamen arrived late that night they were met by peasant women ready to fight."

"However, there was no firing and there have been no martyrs. 'The revolution' was ended in five (Continued on Page 7, Col. 1)

Surveys Are Made Near Kingston

No Report Is Available From State on Study for Arterial Routes in City Area

Date Is Unknown

No Definite Time Fixed for Beginning of Local Construction

State engineers have determined the alignment of the Catskill Thruway from Saugerties toward Kingston as far as Lake Katrine, an official of the State Department of Public Works said today.

Preliminary surveys have been made just outside of the city and near the point where the route will cross Route 28, The Ontario Trail, but the course of the highway in this area is still undetermined, the official indicated.

It was also revealed that state engineers have made a "special study for department use in the Kingston area," but no report is available at this time on an arterial route study made some time ago in and near the city.

The arterial route study, it was announced previously, will have some bearing on main state route through the city, and both the Washington avenue viaduct and the proposed Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge are to be considered.

Meanwhile, several miles of the thruway from near Saugerties toward Catskill, are now under construction and a considerable portion has been completed. This, when finished will relieve a bottleneck on upper Route 9W for some distance between Saugerties and Catskill.

Two or three sites for the interchange at the point where the thruway will cross Route 28 are under consideration, an engineer said, and a factor here is also the crossing of the Loopus creek and the Catskill Mountain Branch of the New York Central railroad.

The thruway is expected to cross Route 28 somewhere within the first mile from the city line, but the exact point of the interchange will not be determined until the survey from Lake Katrine to the city is completed.

The state official also revealed today that the time for start of the project between Saugerties and Kingston is still unknown. It will be placed on the state highway program when the money is set aside, and until this action is taken, it will be impossible to estimate when it will start.

The engineer, who disclosed that the department had been making a "special study," in the Kingston area, said he could not disclose at this time what it was for, but indicated that it would have some bearing on future main route traffic in and near the city.

Results of arterial route surveys, which have been made throughout the state in recent years by a special unit of the public works department, are kept on file for use when needed. Recommendations as a result of the surveys, have been carried out in only a few scattered areas to date.

RARE FORESIGHT

Historical prophets, from Mother Shipton to Nostradamus, have customarily furnished their disciples with predictions which have been distinguished by their vagueness and generality as to time and events. The Germans have uncovered one recently, however, who was definite and surprisingly accurate. In a novel called "The Emperor's Choice," published in 1849, Alexander von Ungern-Sternberg prophesied that the Russians would occupy Germany in 1949. He projected his hero into this century and described his view of Berlin in ruins. One new edifice he saw was a Russian war memorial. The year which he predicted to lead to this devastation and the Russian occupation would be a result of the unification of Germany, said the author. Without this union, which in 1849 was still a debatable project, Germany might have developed peacefully, his futuristic novel declared.

Prophecies, which might be useful as guides to the conduct of public or private affairs, are seldom given serious consideration until after the events outlined. The fact that the future is a sealed book is so generally believed that any attempt to break the seal is not taken seriously. This German writer's spectacular accuracy must be laid in part to coincidence, but at the same time he used logic and historical perspective. He did not so much see into the future as carefully trace probable effects from causes. Hitler's downfall was in part due to his failure to reason this way.

The Panama Canal may someday have a rival. Mexican engineers, at a recent convention, have revived the old project of cutting the Isthmus of Tehuantepec and making a new connection there between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. By utilizing the Coatzacoalcos River, some 90 miles of the estimated 140 could be constructed with fair ease, though some of the kinks in the river might have to be taken out.

SPEAKING 'AMERICAN'

A language spoken by Americans differs radically from the academic English taught in foreign schools. Graduates of these institutions who come to America at some times baffled by the problems of conversation with Americans.

New York University, taking cognizance of this fact, has instituted a course in "English for the Educated Foreigner." Current slang is taken up in this course as well as local idioms. The students find it hard to acustom themselves to the rapidity of American speech, just as Americans have the same difficulty with speech in other tongues.

In the study of English, as in any other language, once the basic rules of grammar are mastered, the best method for learning the common use of the language is informal conversation with those who speak it well. Language is a tool which, to be kept sharp, must be used daily, and used properly.

A smart aleck is only human, and sooner or later he will be set down by the simple nature of things as they are.

INDONESIAN SETTLEMENT

For the third time in four years, the Dutch and the Indonesians have agreed to stop shooting at each other. There seems to be a generally optimistic acceptance of the third agreement as the charmed one which will lead to a successful termination of the war in Indonesia.

There seems also to be general belief that a new nation, the United States of Indonesia, is about to come into being. It is reported both in Batavia, where the agreement was signed, and in Lake Success, the United Nations headquarters, that the Netherlands is ready to set up the long-promised federated government, and grant it full sovereignty. That step would be expected to end the Indonesian war, but probably nothing short of it would do so. The Indonesian Republicans have fought through four bitter years for their own sovereignty, and now are not likely to turn aside for any lesser prize. A free

CONSCIENCE AND THE VOTE

Judge David Peck, of the Appellate Division in New York, and I were discussing New York politics between Beethoven and Liszt at Tanglewood. And the judge said something that is so true:

"Politics," he said, "is the art of the irrelevant." Of course, what he meant by politics was not the conduct of government but the business of being elected. The former requires great knowledge, skill and statesmanship; the latter involves a series of deals, honest or dishonest, moral or indecent, to obtain a nomination and then to get elected. It is the latter process that often arouses such discouragement and disillusionment as to the democratic process in the United States.

For instance, in New York, where live 8,000,000 Americans, who so often regard themselves as so superior to the hicks from the hinterlands, the selection of a mayor is left to a few professional politicians, the direct primaries amounting to nothing because the citizens do not care.

The Republican party has completely disappeared in a series of deals which produced its elimination. The shocking thing about it is that the old and distinguished Republican party had no candidate for mayor and could not find anyone suitable who was willing to run. When one is dislenged to produce a name, he is usually stymied. It is a sad commentary on civic virtue.

Now what does a citizen do when the politicians hand him three names and say, pick one of the three? He looks at the names and then he thinks that the mayor of such a city handles a billion dollar budget, looks after the finances, police, the fire department, the health, education, sanitation and welfare of 8,000,000 people. He looks at the careers of these men and can find not one reason to believe that by education, training or experience one of them can be expected to do a reasonably competent job.

A good citizen, however, must vote in each election and pick the least unsatisfactory candidate. In fact, it has been suggested to me that I ought to vote for Newbold Morris because he is less objectionable than Bill O'Dwyer and Vito Marcantonio. On the other hand, it has been suggested to me that I ought to vote for Bill O'Dwyer, who has actually had four years of experience as mayor, while Newbold Morris and Vito Marcantonio have had none at all.

So there I am. If I don't vote, I am not a good citizen. If I do vote for men I do not respect, or in whom I have no confidence, I am not an honest man. Once I solved that problem this way: I would not vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt and I could not vote for Wendell Willkie. So I voted for Roger Babson. Many others that year voted for Norman Thomas. It is called a "Protest Vote." What good is a Protest Vote?

Of course, it is possible to go to the polls, perform the act of citizenship by voting for such lesser candidates as one can conscientiously vote for. That really means that the professional politician gets two votes; the one he controls and mine by negative action.

Maybe this sounds to you as much ado about nothing, but it is really very important. Our form of government is being criticized the world over, and even in our country, as being a thing which only the worst elements in the population go to the top, as failing in efficiency and competence. The most disgraceful thing about it is bossism, the rule of self-selected, self-serving and self-perpetuating politicians who assume no responsibility to the people but manipulate the control of power.

Into this situation have moved racketeers, labor leaders, pressure group officials. It costs a fortune to be elected to any office. Candidates and their managers have to raise the money and where do you get money these days? The best place is the big labor unions with their huge reserves in strike funds, educational funds and welfare funds which their leaders can spend at will and without detailed reports. So most candidates call themselves "liberals," and the deals are made accordingly. The rest of us have to take what comes out of this. Or do we?

ELECTRIC SHOCK TREATMENT

A few years ago before World War II it was estimated that the rate mental cases were increasing that one-half of the world would be needed to look after the other half. This was before the shock treatment was known when all mental hospitals were operating almost at full capacity. Today the outlook is brighter mostly because of shock treatment, more particularly electric shock treatment.

Some months ago I spoke of the results obtained by two New York psychiatrists, Drs. Nathan Suvitky and William Karlner, who treated 200 cases of mental disease in their offices. These physicians reported that 96 recovered with five or fewer treatments and the average number of treatments given the 200 cases averaged between 8 and 9.

In the "Canadian Medical Association Journal," Dr. A. L. MacKinnon (Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph, Ontario) reports results of treatment of 300 mental (psychiatric) patients with all types of mental disease over a four year period. Patients with heart disease or high blood pressure were not included, although patients of advanced age were in the group.

The 300 mental cases chosen included depressive states, melancholia, double personality, persistent dream state and others. The number that recovered was 101, the number greatly improved was 88, the number slightly improved 53, and unimproved 50. This means that in this group the shock treatment helped 5 of every 8 patients in which it was used.

Patients classed as "recovered" were free of any signs or symptoms of mental disturbance. Those classed "greatly improved" were able to return home but still showed some remaining symptoms of mental disturbance. Those "slightly improved" showed definite benefit; many were kept in hospital but were finally able to live a fairly normal life at home.

The smallest number of shocks were three given to six patients, four to thirteen patients, and never more than 15 in one series. Psychiatrists using electric shock treatments know that by usual methods of mental hospital treatment a goodly number recover or greatly improve. Not only does the electric shock treatment obtain results in much less time but it also improves many cases that were not responding to the usual mental hospital treatment.

Indonesia, of which the Republican territory presumably would be a part, would have to offer very real freedom.

If this should come to pass, the once mighty Dutch empire would enter a new stage, bearing a resemblance to the British Commonwealth of Nations, which likewise evolved from a one-time colonial empire. The world moves on toward greater freedom and dignity for the individual. Nations and powers which recognize the movement and take part in it can grow with it. Those which oppose it are doomed.

Heathen Idolators

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Washington—A theatrical company of American Negroes will tour the Scandinavian countries next month to offset Paul Robeson's Communist-sponsored barnstorming.

The Negro players will present Henrik Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" in Denmark, Sweden and Norway, and thus demonstrate that all American Negroes aren't down-trodden, but can attain the same educational and cultural heights as other Americans.

This good-will tour was arranged by the Norwegian Embassy and by Howard University of Washington, D. C., without any prompting from the State Department. Twenty-one students and three instructors from Howard University's Drama Department will make the trip, most of the expenses being paid by Elinor Davis, American philanthropist, who also brought an American Company to Denmark to play "Hamlet."

The idea of sending Negro players to Scandinavia was suggested by Ivan Jacobsen, staff member of the Norwegian Embassy, after he happened to see the Howard University Drama Department in action. He felt that Paul Robeson had not painted a true picture of the American Negroes and so on his own initiative promoted the tour as a gesture of people-to-people friendship.

Prediction: This will do almost as much good as some phases of the North Atlantic Pact.

Seen and Heard in the Senate
Restaurant: Senator Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, newly appointed attorney general, finished lunch and called for his check. The waiter brought it. This was the first day the new District of Columbia sales tax went into effect.

"The tax should be three cents, not two," the Senator advised the waiter. "You've undercharged me."

Since Senator McGrath wrote the sales-tax law for the District of Columbia, the waiter didn't argue. The man who, as attorney general, will be responsible for enforcing the law, handed him the extra penny.

Whispered on the Senate Floor:
The Senate buzzed with news of the appointment of Attorney General Clark to the Supreme Court and of Senator McGrath to be attorney general—especially Senators James Kem of Missouri, Clark's bitter critic, and Homer Ferguson of Michigan who has been under investigation.

Leaning forward, Senator Bob Taft whispered in Kem's ear: "We're going to make you and Homer the reception committee for the new Supreme Court justice."

The Amazing Maragon
Sam Boykin, head of the State Department's gunship department and cousin of Alabama's congressman "Everything's for Love" Boykin, is very secretive about it, but he is busying up another strange chapter in the strange life of John Maragon.

Though the State Department won't talk, Maragon was mixed up in a deal to buy all the surplus U. S. Army vehicles in Germany—about 7,000 trucks, trailers and jeeps. The price was $125,000 and the sale was consummated Jan. 31, 1948, to a Belgian scrap dealer.

Maragon was representing a Britisher, George Dawson, who has a criminal record, and for whom he had also done some work in Washington with the War Assets Administration. Maragon's close contract in war assets has been Joe Major, a member of Truman's Battery 2, and an intimate of General Vaughan's. Major recently flew with the President to Little Rock for their battery's reunion. He also states that he has received about 500 phone calls from Vaughan, visits at his home about once a week, and got to know Maragon through Vaughan.

Arriving in Paris in the winter of 1948, the amazing Maragon presented letters of introduction to Gen. Clyde Hysong, in charge of war surplus for the State Department, and then proceeded to change the general with giving unwarranted information to Jack Van Allen, a rival of Maragon's, who also represented Dawson. In the end, the State Department had to send a special investigator across the Atlantic to straighten out the row.

In the end, also, Dawson and Maragon did not get the 7,000 surplus vehicles, though they did get about 700 army motorcycles after a heated row over the price.

Backstage with the G.O.P.
The backstage story of what happened inside the Republican national committee shows how hilariously the Taft-Dawsey forces are still divided.

The man chiefly responsible for Guy Gabrielson's hairbreadth election as chairman was Taft's close friend, hefty Republican Clarence Brown of Ohio.

It was Brown, working closely with Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, who induced Abel Stowell of Nebraska to switch to Gabrielson, thus clinching a majority of the committee's 302 votes for the New Jerseyite.

In doing so, Brown definitely ruled himself out as a compromise candidate for the chairmanship.

At one point Taft forces were flabbergasted at a Dewey offer, made by Mason Owlett of Pennsylvania, to support Taft's close friend, Brown, provided Gabrielson agreed to step out.

"I am not a candidate," he told Owlett. "I have come out for Gabe and I won't let him down."

Mississippi Vetoes Hailcock
At one point when Indiana's Charlie Hailcock was proposed as a compromise by Deweyites, Perry Howard, negro national committeeman from Mississippi, threatened to resign.

"I can't face my colored friends and tell them I have been a party to any such compromise," Howard announced at the secret session. "I am opposed to Charlie Hailcock and will step out if he is chosen as our leader."

Hailcock's friends scoffed at rumors he is anti-negro and insisted that Perry Howard was playing politics for his friend, Bob Taft.

However, another committeeman referred to "Drew Pearson's" report that the Indiana congressman kept a stable of Cadillac limousines despite his modest congressional salary.

If Charlie Hailcock were elected he'd have five Cadillac limousines around national headquarters," commented one Taft roger.

However, when Hailcock was approached by Deweyites he flatly refused to be a candidate unless Gabrielson dropped out of the race and he was to be elected unanimously.

Defense Secretary Johnson Orders U. S. Navy Reduced by 50 Per Cent

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 9—Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has ordered the United States Navy virtually cut in half—to a size smaller than the pre-war Japanese navy. Actually the naval air arm is to be cut by 50 per cent.

Only four of the "Midway" class aircraft carriers—two for each ocean—are to be maintained under the plans for the fiscal year beginning next July. This means that there would be only one carrier task force for naval operations in the seven seas, because at least four carriers are necessary for a task force.

But this doesn't mean economy. The same money—and perhaps more—is to be devoted to the U. S. Air Force, for which service Secretary Johnson has shown a distinct leaning as against the other armed services.

Orders have been quietly issued by the secretary of defense to begin planning next year's budget on the basis of a 50 per cent cut in the navy's air arm and a reduction in other naval components. The damage to the morale of the navy, however, will be done this year as word gets out that the United States has virtually abandoned carrier aviation after it had enabled this country to sweep 8,000 miles across the Pacific to win an unprecedented victory.

Although the new unification law contains certain "safeguards" forbidding the secretary of defense from altering the missions of the navy or the other armed services, Mr. Johnson, by the simple device of cutting its budget, will now consciously alter those same missions so far as the navy is concerned. Here are the details of the new directive as revealed today in "U. S. News & World Report":

1. Carriers of the "Midway" class to be cut from 8 to 4.
2. Carrier air groups to be cut from 14 to 8.
3. Smaller carriers of the "Salp" class to be cut from 10 to 4.
4. Marine corps aviation squadrons to be cut from 23 to 12.
5. Anti-submarine air squadrons to be cut from 8 to 7.
6. Patrol squadrons to be cut from 30 to 20.
7. Cruisers to be cut from 18 to 12.
8. Destroyers to be cut from 162 to 140.
9. Submarines to be cut from 80 to 70.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Aug. 8—It happens that I have known John Maragon, the Greek bootblack, as the Washington dispatches seldom fail to call him, for about 25 years. I think this mention of the fact that he was a bootblack in Kansas City, when Kansas City was a very tough town as any alumni of the Kansas City Star will tell you, has been a touch supercilious. It is as though bootblackery were akin to burglary. It isn't, necessarily. I got bored by the pretentious rough-diamond affections of men who were newsboys long ago and came on to ride in chaises. I mean such as Jimmy Petrillo and Joe Bannon.

Mr. Bannon never tired of telling Phil Beach jokes. The joke he lived in the Brace newsboys' home but forgot to say that he was just a little tramp and sleepout with a good bed empty under his mother's virtuous roof on the west side. I sold papers, too. What of it? Everybody did, but it didn't mean that we were homeless unclean. We liked to hop street cars and have a good time. It was a form of public life.

I met Johnny Maragon around the old Tampa Bay Hotel, a weird heap built by old man Plant who shoved the railroad down and across from Jacksonville. It is a silly building with bulbous edema like inverted turnips mounted on unprovoked and inexcusable towers, suggesting Turkish or Moorish predilections in the architect.

It was headquarters for our invasion of Cuba in 1938, with gallant officers tipping over their swords and slapping their thighs with their gauntlets.

I used to frequent the Tampa Bay because it was close to the center of the Grapefruit League, and had one American man that the bootblackery could get ahead of. It was wonderful. The people who ran it also ran a summer hotel at Poland Springs, Me., and the whole staff moved with the seasons. The bootboys wore lion-lamers' uniforms and when Guard-mount came the guests would gather round to watch them cut the rug in formations that made the West Point Corps look like a pack of druffies.

John had a job with the Burns Agency repossessing delinquent loans for some finance company, like General Motors acceptance. He had a fast-lane gall, a pleasant personality and was as big as a felder's mitt. Fingers like bananas. Possibly from whipping that rag as a bootblack.

Everybody liked John. And because he always had a good car under him, relieved from some optimist who had driven south and quietly faded into the confusion, forgetting his payments, I was strongly attracted to him. He drove me to a job of those points where the clubs were training. People would come Florida tags but Johnny would come look like a pack of druffies.

Questions-Answers

Q—Who said "All men are liars?"

A—In the Book of Psalms, King David says: "I said in my haste, all men are liars."

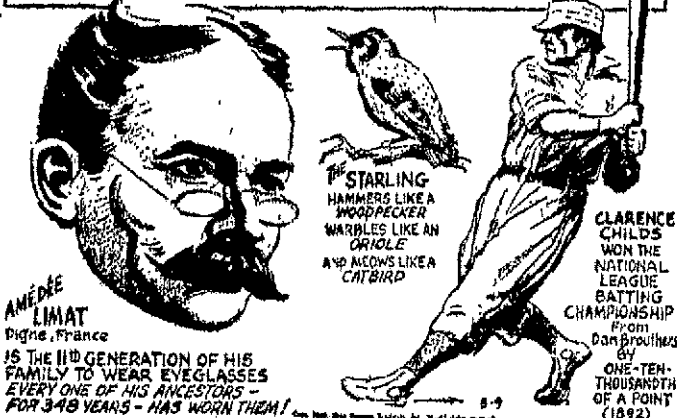

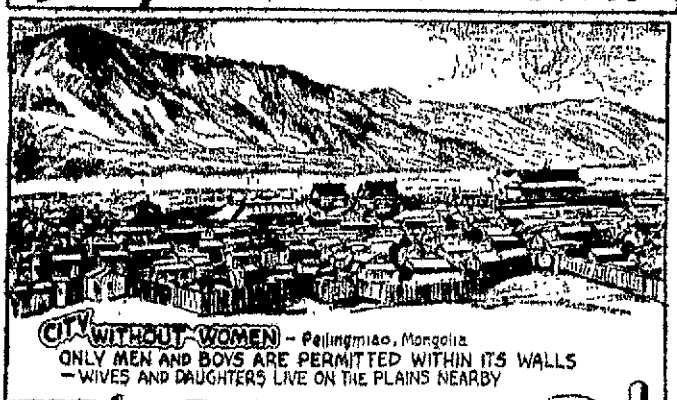

Q—On what date do the swallows appear at San Juan Capistrano Mission?

A—Legend has it that the swallows arrive at the old mission on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, and depart on St. John's Day, October 23. However, it is said that because of insecticides and other sprays in use today, the swallows leave in July. They still come in on schedule.

Q—How does the height of Niagara Falls compare with that of the falls at Upper Yosemite, Calif.?

A—Niagara Falls is 167 feet high; the upper Yosemite Falls in California is 1430 feet high.

Kingston and Freedom

The literary and artistic history of the city and county may be traced to the time of the first Dutch settlers when mention is made of the library of Dr. Gysbet Van Imbroch whose wife was Rachel de la Montagne, daughter of the vice director of the colony at Fort Orange. Rachel was one of the women captured by the Indians during the Esopus wars but fortunately released unharmed. Upon the death of Dr. Van Imbroch, his library was bought from his widow by Henry Pavling. Nothing is recorded again until 1809 when a group of citizens contributed 50 pounds or $100 to found the Kingston Society Library. In 1809 the Rondout Young Men's Association of which Thomas Cornell was president had a library of 600 books. Clubs such as the Kingston and Rondout Club later the Kingston Club also had libraries. Small libraries were to be found in some of the schools notably in Kingston and Ulster Academy. It was not until 1893 that serious steps were taken to found a public free library when a meeting was held in the City Hall and 300 contributed to form the nucleus of the present 26,000 books in the fine Kingston City Library building built through the generosity of Andrew Carnegie. It is supported by the dues from those who are members of the Kingston City Library Association to which all citizens are invited to join, and funds provided by the Common Council of the city each year.

The library has a reference section containing many valuable and rare books which is used considerably by authors in the city and county. Frequently writers from far away places who use the reference section have informed the librarian that our library has a surprising number of excellent reference not usually found in a city many times the population of Kingston. Included among the authors from Kingston who are known outside its limits may be mentioned Edward Hungerford who wrote "The Pathway of Empire" and in it says of the Hudson river: "It is born of a raindrop on the leaf of a tree somewhere in the hidden depths of the vast and seemingly endless Adirondacks."

Edward Hungerford was the son of the Hungerfords who owned the Eagle Hotel on Main street known far and wide in the Hudson Valley. The library issued free to the reading public 73,731 books in 1948, a "turn over" of two and a half times the available number of books—at present 26,500.

Many libraries were burned in European countries during both World Wars so that books would not be available to the people. In the United States we need have no fear that we will be deprived of the right to read books. Nor need we fear the suppression of the newspapers of our free press. The first newspaper in Kingston was "The Rising Sun," later changed to the Ulster County Gazette. It was first published in 21 September, 1793 and succeeded the "Farmer's Register." As far as known only one authentic copy of the Ulster County Gazette is in existence. It is an extremely valuable issue and is in the "Congressional Library" in Washington, D. C. Copies frequently are offered for sale but they have proved to be reprints. Since the days of the "Rising Sun" a considerable number have been published in Kingston. Except for "The Kingston Daily Freeman" and the "Ulster County News and Kingston Leader" all have fallen by the wayside. During the first session of the Senate in 1777 a paper was published but disappeared after the burning of the village and nothing more is known about it. John Holt the owner and publisher of the New York Journal and Advertiser moved his plant to Kingston from Poughkeepsie where he had gone when the British captured New York. The plant was moved here when Poughkeepsie was captured. The paper was published here from July until October 1777 when Holt moved to New York once again.

As Pegler Sees It

up with a delinquent car every few days.

A couple of years ago I began to receive anonymous notes casting suspicion on Johnny. He had gone to Greece with the American State Department mission which supervised the election. He had a pass to the White House. He had gone to Potsdam with Truman.

But I didn't come across him until a few weeks ago.

What about all this?

Well, Johnny said, being from Kansas City's downtown streets, he naturally had known Harry Truman and naturally he had become acquainted with Harry

Vaughan, too. And when the B. and O. invited him to go after government business which was going almost exclusively to the Pennsylvania, Johnny took the job. He is naturally affable and obliging. I have seen many of his type around the fight business and race tracks. We call them hustlers. Johnny said that during his years with the B. and O., 170 congressmen and senators died, or some such number. In such events, Congress always sends an escort home with the departed brother and Johnny's job was to book them on the B. and O. as far as could be. Of that 175 or whatever the figure was, John Maragon snagged all but a few funeral parties. His professional triumph came when the Roosevelt funeral special ran B. and O. from Washington to Linden, N. J., and from Linden back to Washington. I think he said the Pennsylvania got only 19 miles each way.

He said that after the war he went to Europe to do some business about essential oils for a Chicago perfume company.

"What do you know about essential oils?"

"What did I know about selling railroad tickets?" Johnny said. "Nothing. But I can talk and I can get around and make friends."

But he did not go to Potsdam. No. No. Mistake!

Sure he had a card to the White House when he was with the B. and O., but there was nothing unusual about that. Wouldn't you if you could? And he had given it up when he dropped the connection. Sure he could go in and see Harry Vaughan, now a major-general and President Truman's aid, at his office in the East Wing. Anything wrong about that? They are old friends aren't they?

The friendship with Mr. Truman ripened when he was in the Senate. An uneducated immigrant bootblack had shown the manhood and ability to make something of himself and Mr. Truman was perverse enough not to disown him. What guilt was there in the fact that Johnny was given a trip, a triumphant return in his small personal way, to his native land as an interpreter for the mission? He was a loyal, anti-Communist American citizen. That was more than you could say of some more ornate personalities who were wanting to go. And he could speak Greek. And if he did flaunt a treasured photograph of himself and Harry Truman, what would have been more natural? A runaway immigrant kid from a little Aegean Greek island, not the island of Malta, by the way, a former water-boy of the Union Pacific construction gangs, later the personal friend of President Bill Jefferson, was back where he started forty years ago. He came back with an official mission of the fabulous United States of America. Would you expect that he would keep that snapshot hidden?

Pine Camp's Forest Fire Is Reported Under Control

Pine Camp, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)

A forest fire that swept the northern section of this military reservation was reported under control today.

A National Guard spokesman said the danger to the village of Spragueville, a community of approximately 150 persons, had been averted.

Residents of the St. Lawrence county community had been warned yesterday to be prepared to leave their homes. However, the flames spreading westward were stalled last night by backfires and shifting winds about five miles from the village.

Hundreds of National Guardsmen from New York's 27th Infantry Division fought the fire yesterday, but only a skeleton crew remained on duty today.

Army bulldozers cleared fire breaks while the troops and volunteer firemen from nearby communities built backfires.

The blaze broke out Sunday and swept over the camp's combat range, about 25 miles from the reservation headquarters. By last night, it had spread over 10 square miles.

the "Gearhart resolution" enacted last year. This resolution excluded persons such as commission salesmen by a definition of "employee."

For taxes, the committee proposed that the first $3,600 of a person's income be taxed; whereas present law taxes only the first $3,000 of income. Employers match the old age insurance taxes paid by their employees.

Now at 1 per cent against employees' pay and employers' pay, the social security tax is due to jump by present law to 1 1/2 per cent against each on January 1 and to two per cent on each on January 1, 1952. The committee has decided tentatively that the levy should increase further to 2 1/2 per cent in 1960 and to 3 per cent in 1965.

For many years Congress has frozen the tax at one per cent, preventing automatic increases provided by the original Social Security Act. But the new bill would permit the increases as now scheduled.

Smith Is Attending Conference of Sheriffs

Sheriff George C. Smith is attending the 15th annual conference of the New York State Sheriffs' Association, now in session at the Hotel Plaza in New York.

The conference opened Monday with an address by James B. Nolan, deputy police commissioner of New York, followed by luncheon at the Downtown Athletic Club. The 100 sheriffs attending were welcomed to New York by Mayor William O'Dwyer, who spoke briefly at City Hall Plaza.

The council of state granted the president extraordinary power to cope with the situation. He was given the right to take funds already allotted for other purposes and use them for disaster relief.

An emergency airlift is bringing supplies into the stricken areas and hauling out injured to cities where hospital facilities are available.

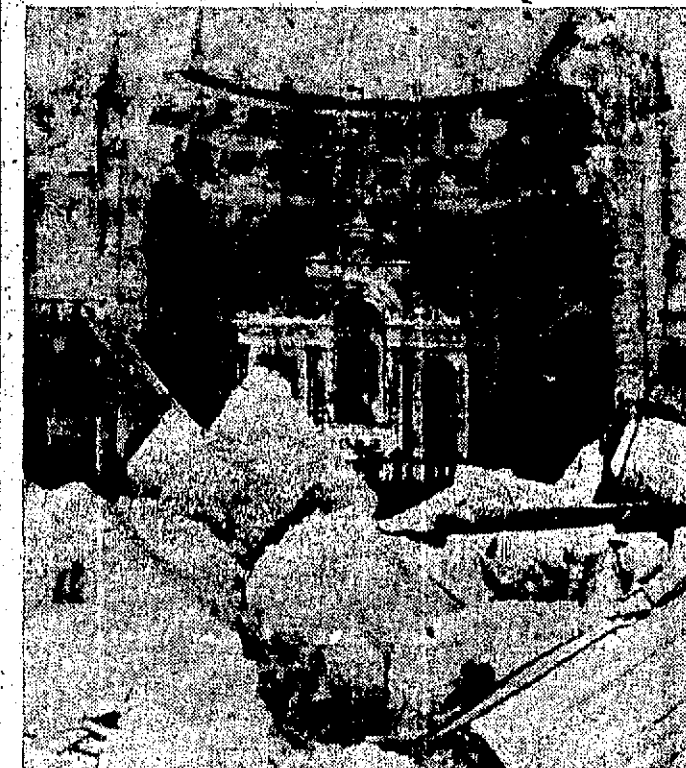

U. S. Army and Navy planes in the Caribbean area were being readied to start another shuttle of doctors, nurses and medical supplies.

President Miguel Aleman of Mexico has ordered a Mexican army plane readied to take medical supplies and doctors to the stricken areas.

Right now the most serious problem is getting water into the quake areas. All water systems were demolished by the tremors and streams were diverted from their regular courses or dammed up by landslides.

The Shell Oil Company produced its own electricity with diesel generators at its Ambato base. Its radio transmitter played a big role in calling for help after the disaster.

CHILDREN ENTOMBED IN QUAKE

Huge blocks of stone lie before the altar of the cathedral at Ambato, Ecuador, where 60 children were entombed in a severe earthquake. The children were being catechized by a priest, who was also killed in the disaster. Ambato, Ecuador's third largest industrial city, was in ruins. (NEA Telephoto) had apparently stumbled into the pond on the first day he was missing, as he probably had been dead a week when discovered.

The fact that the man had on his person a sum of money indicates that the death was accidental, the coroner said. The money had not been disturbed when the body was discovered, he said.

Water in the pond had receded during the dry weather until only a marsh area remained, making it difficult to remove the body, the coroner reported. With the help of the Port Ewen Fire Department, Semon's body was finally removed about 2:30 p. m.

Semon retired 12 years ago after 51 years as passenger and freight conductor on the West Shore Division of the New York Central Railroad. He is survived by his wife, the former Henrietta Smith of this city and a son, Louis A. Semon, Jr., of Port Ewen.

Private funeral services were scheduled at the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, this afternoon, with burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

In connection with the arms plan, some senators say they are confused over the question:

"When does a tank become surplus?"

They may write a ceiling of $500,000,000 on the amount of military surplus that can be shipped abroad.

Their confusion arose from a disclosure by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) that military leaders had told China two months ago there was no surplus equipment but now say supplies that originally cost $450,000,000 are available for North Atlantic treaty signers.

Po'keepsie Council

Kenna declined to vote as he is an owner of property to be acquired under the provisions of the housing plans, it was reported. Unlike the president of Kingston's Common Council, the Poughkeepsie president is permitted to vote if he so desires. In Kingston the presiding officer votes only in case of a tie.

The state-approved contract was presented to the council at their regular meeting last week, but action was postponed until Monday's adjourned meeting because "several details remained to be ironed out," the city chamberlain's office reported.

The area to be cleared is in the Jefferson street section near the Mid-Hudson Bridge, a section heavily traveled by vehicles entering and leaving the bridge. Selection of the site on which the new housing is to be built will be made between two areas, one in the lower wards of the city and the alternative in the Smith street section near the Salt Point road.

Chicago's Crime Has Undergone Subtle Changes

Chicago, Aug. 9 (AP)—There has been a change in Chicago's underworld.

You don't hear the bang, bang of gang pistols and machine guns nearly as often as you did 20 years ago. But there are other, and more subtle, differences between the era of Al Capone and the present time.

Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission, a civic agency that has been the city's "watch-dog of crime" for 30 years, compares the two periods.

"There isn't as much wild west style shooting among gang elements as during the '20s and '30s," he says. "There still are killings but not to the same extent."

The FBI reported Chicago had 326 murders in 1948. That was the highest number for any city in the U. S. But—and this is one of the big points of difference between the Capone and post-Capone periods—only a few of them were mob jobs.

The commission's files showed that gang murders averaged 35 a year in the violent 1926-32 epoch. The number was down to seven in 1946, three in 1947, ten in 1948 and only two in the first half of this year.

There were as many gang murders on one day in 1929 as there were in one recent year, 1946. Seven men were executed by a firing squad in a North Side garage on St. Valentine's Day 20 years ago. The echoes of the shots were heard around the world.

"During the Capone gang heyday operations were much more brazen than today," Peterson said. "Many political figures then found it expedient to be known as friends of hoodlums. That isn't true now."

Gambling Held Down
Chicago hasn't been such a happy hunting ground since businessman Martin H. Kennelly became mayor in 1947.

"Gambling, the main source of gang revenue, has been whittled down," Peterson said. "There used to be seven joints within a short walk of my office in the loop. They're gone now. There still is gambling but not on the old scale."

What happened to Capone's "boys"—past masters of the alchemy of converting muscle into money?

Peterson, slim, sharp former FBI agent, recited a dozen notorious names.

"A lot of the big shots of the Capone regime still are in existence," he said. "They're not as much in evidence as they were, but they still are too numerous. They're organized more along business lines."

"The lower level of gambling

Government Takes $6,133 From Account

Mystic, Conn., Aug. 9 (AP)—The federal government has dipped once again into the bank account of Miss Vivien Kellems, implacable foe of the withholding provision of the income tax law.

The dip—to the tune of $6,133—was announced yesterday by Miss Kellems herself.

It was made, she said, under the direction of John Fitzpatrick, internal revenue collector for the Connecticut district, because she had not withheld the income taxes of employees of the Kellems Cable Grip Company here.

She called the seizure a "penalty" and not a collection of unpaid taxes because, she said, "every penny in withholding taxes has been paid and the government admits it."

Her employees pay the tax themselves. She has withheld no taxes for more than a year, and says she won't unless the government pays her a salary as tax collector.

Furthermore, she said yesterday, she will institute action to recover the $6,133.

Her method of recovering some $1,600 which the government seized in the same manner over a year ago was to deduct that amount from her personal income tax return last March.

Miss Kellems, who contends the withholding tax law is unconstitutional, on several occasions has invited Treasury Secretary Snyder to indict her so the law might be tested. The invitation has not been accepted.

Breaks Glass, Dies

Newark, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP)—A drinking glass which Morris Corprew accidentally knocked from his wife's hand cost him his life, police were told. Corprew's wife said he stumbled against her in their home, knocking the glass to the floor and smashing it. Thrown off balance, he then fell on the jagged pieces. Physicians at the Beth Israel Hospital, where he died yesterday, said the cut glass severed an artery in his chest. He was 38.

Mayor Drops Dead

Grovetown, Ga., Aug. 9 (AP)—"That's all," said Mayor J. N. Fields as he dismissed a session of Municipal Court last night. Then he dropped dead. A physician said the 55-year-old mayor was stricken with a heart ailment.

here may account for the fact that some of the hoodlums are operating elsewhere. They operate wherever they can operate with profit and without harassment. Important members of the Chicago mob are tied up with big shots on the east coast. Others have interests in Florida. As an example of how the Capone-built syndicates "tentacles" have spread across the map of the U. S. he cited the conspiracy in the early 40's to extort more than $1,000,000 from the movie industry. The plot was hatched in Chicago. The target was the heap of gold in Hollywood. The case ended up in New York, where five of Chicago's middle-aged "boys" were tried and convicted. Al Capone, as you know, is dead. Fourteen others on Chicago's original (19'0) list of public enemies also have gone to the grave. With them went some of gangland's old trappings—the machine gun toled in a golf bag, the pearl gray hat cocked at an arrogant angle, the flamboyant funeral complete with a statue of the deceased wrought of fresh and expensive flowers.

Compartments Doubled

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 8 (AP)—A sign of prosperity in Germany: The German railroad is doubling the number of smoking compartments on its trains. The reason: Cigarettes, once so scarce and expensive they were the backbone of the black market, are now so plentiful and cheap that more people can afford to smoke them. A pack of cigarettes which used to cost 100 Reichsmarks valued at ten dollars, now cost two and a half Deutsch marks, valued at 75 cents.

Designation Sought For Northern Region

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has been asked to designate drought-stricken northern New York a disaster loan area.

"The plight of farmers in this largely agricultural section of New York state is desperate," Rep. Kilburn (R-N.Y.) told a reporter.

Prudential Wages Campaign Against Spread of Polio

An all-out poliomyelitis information campaign is being waged by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America in the interest of checking the rising rate of polio cases being reported in various sections of the country. W. C. Crabtree, acting head of the company's Kingston district office, reported today.

Informational literature is being distributed to hundreds of thousands of families by the agency of its nation-wide network of field offices, Crabtree said. In addition, the company is offering, through its coast-to-coast radio broadcasts, a brochure on the prevention, symptoms and treatment of the disease.

"We are eager to back up the work of all local health and infantile paralysis agencies in an effort to wipe out this scourge," he said, "and we feel that one of the greatest contributions we can offer is our campaign to make people conscious of their personal and social responsibility in fighting polio epidemics."

"The tremendous number of requests for polio information being received by our home office at Newark, N. J., is very gratifying. It indicated an increasing awareness of the importance of a reasonably good knowledge of the subject."

Meantime, Prudential's medical director, Dr. Edwin G. Davis, says that until an effective polio vaccine is discovered, parents are the best "inoculation" against the spread of the disease, according to Mr. Crabtree.

He quoted Dr. Davis as saying that since 80 per cent of all polio cases occur in children under 15, parents, by having their children comply with the preventative standards established by local authorities, can play a major role in arresting the spread of polio to epidemic proportions.

Two Weathermen Killed

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 9 (AP)—Two U. S. Air Force weathermen were killed in a jeep accident August 2 near Saint Menenoud, France, the army announced yesterday. They were Cpl. Edward J. Kowalski of Baltimore, Md., and Cpl. Joseph L. Coratti, Jr. Coratti leaves his mother, Mrs. Joseph L. Coratti of Falkirk Place, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Spiritualist Dies Of Strangulation; Her Killer Sought

Baltimore, Aug. 9 (AP)—Someone bound a 60-year-old spiritualist hand and foot, then strangled her last night with an electric cord.

Her fellow mediums immediately offered their services to police. They said they would attempt to get through to the spirit world and learn from the victim, Mrs. Emma A. Kefalos, the identity of her slayer.

Mrs. Kefalos, a widow, had lived alone in her second floor apartment in Baltimore's Polish-Bohemian section.

Four years ago, after her husband's death, she began giving seances and gazing into crystal balls. Neighbors said most of those who came to her for spiritual readings drove up in expensive cars.

As she was a friendly sort of a person, other residents of the block missed her when she did not appear most of yesterday.

Nick Drivas, who operates a restaurant under the Kefalos apartment-seance chamber, went upstairs to investigate.

He found her, feet and legs bound with clothesline, lying face down on the living room floor. An electric ironing cord was wrapped tightly about her neck.

Nearby was her crystal ball. Hundreds of bottles of "love potion" were stored in a cupboard.

The apartment had been thoroughly ransacked, but police discounted robbery as a motive.

In an open bureau drawer, investigators found $68 in cash. Five valuable rings were discovered in a tool box.

A search for Mrs. Kefalos' acquaintances started after a fellow-medium described her as a "wonderful woman but a mediocre spiritualist who had a lot of trouble with men friends."

Another spiritualist, Mrs. M. A. Gilleland, said Mrs. Kefalos had two threatening telephone calls from an unknown man recently.

The first time, according to Mrs. Gilleland, the victim was told by her caller that "I'll see you and I'll get you. You'll know who I am."

The second time he made similar remarks and the medium threatened to call police.

Police are trying to find some trace of the mysterious man, as well as Mrs. Kefalos' list of customers.

They say they are in the dark as to a possible motive.

Many Baltimore spiritualists say the big blue may come from the shade of the victim, herself.

They plan to try to invoke her spirit through a series of seances, although they admit it may take time.

An iron blade, perhaps 5,000 years old, was found in an Egyptian pyramid.

Sunday evening the Holy Society met at the home and was led in recitation of the Rosary by Father Siczek. Monday the society attended the funeral Mass in a body and acted as an honorary escort. There was a profusion of beautiful floral pieces and spiritual bouquets in the home and Mass cards. Bearers were Michael Augustine, Joseph Gregory, John Van Steenburgh, John Joseph and Francis Wojciechowski. Burial was in Mt. Calvary Cemetery. Father Siczek gave the final blessing.

The funeral of Martin A. Noble, who died suddenly on Friday, was held from his late residence, 92 Third avenue, Monday at 9:30 a. m. and at St. Mary's Church, where a solemn Mass was offered by the Rev. St. Monignor Martin J. Drury, P.R., V.F. The Rev. John A. Flaherty acting as deacon and the Rev. Austin V. Carey, as sub-deacon. Responses were by the children's choir under the direction of Theodore Reichenbach, organist. The church was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends, who came to pay their final tribute by assisting at the requiem. During the days, the remains repose in the residence over a thousand acquaintance called to offer their sympathy and condolence to the bereaved family. Monday morning Drury and Father Flaherty called and said the prayers for the dead. Sunday evening, St. Mary's Holy Name Society, led by President John Grane, assisted Monignor Drury in the recitation of the Rosary. Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus, with Grand Knight James Grane assembled and assisted the Rev. James A. Dunnigan with the Rosary. B.P.O. Elks Lodge No. 550, under the direction of E. L. K. James G. Connelly, assembled and held their ritual, as did the Mannerher Social Club of which the deceased was a member. The bronze casket was surrounded by beautiful flowers and on the casket were dozens of spiritual bouquets. Bearers were James G. Connelly, Robert Boyle, Edward M. Gillen, Florentine W. Baker, William E. Schloede and William Radatz. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, where the final blessing was given by Monignor Drury, Father Flaherty assisting.

Won't Recall MacArthur
Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson told Senators today he will not order General MacArthur home from Japan to report to Congress unless President Truman approves. Senator Bridges (R-N.H.) said MacArthur should come back whether he wants to or not to give a report on the Far Eastern situation. Johnson and Bridges clashed sharply as the secretary testified on the President's $1,450,000,000 arms program. Johnson said he would not take the responsibility of ordering MacArthur back.

Cline Is Still Missing
Local police said today they had received no further information on Sanford Cline, 80, of Russell street, who has been reported missing since a week ago yesterday. Cline left home in a taxi, the police report said, and has not been seen since.

Study Central Hudson Control Board

Pictured above is a group of high school juniors studying the big control board of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation's hydro-electric plant at Sturgeon Pool near Rifton. This is one of three groups, totaling 29 students, taking the company's three-week indoctrination course covering all phases of the gas and electric utility business. One of the boys will be awarded a four-year engineering scholarship to the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute available in the fall of 1950.

Representing Kingston High School at Central Hudson is George Jackson, Box 65, Shokan.

Brush Catches Fire Near Willow Post Office

Woodstock, Aug. 9—A small brush fire on the former Herbert Carl property near the post office at Willow was extinguished by neighbors and firemen from Woodstock and Phenicia about 3 p. m. Monday.

The fire was discovered by William Van Wagner, gasoline station operator at Willow, who with the aid of neighbors began the work of extinguishing it. Meanwhile, the Woodstock and Phenicia fire companies were notified and both responded. The fire was probably caused by sparks from a fire in a wire incinerator, firemen said.

68 Cases Reported

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Sixty-eight new cases of infantile paralysis, the highest daily total thus far this year, were reported today by the city health department. The new cases, for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a. m. (E.S.T.) today, brought the total for the year to 734, compared with 97 for the same period last year. Twenty-three cases previously reported were dropped as non-polio. The health department said that the 68 new cases may include some delayed week-end reports. Two additional deaths from the disease also were reported, raising the total fatalities for the year to 52.

Order Is Expected

Honolulu, Aug. 9 (AP)—Hawaii's governor is expected to order seizure of the territory's strike-bound docks today—101st day of the crippling tieup. The striking C.I.O. International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union promised to defy government stevedoring operations and test constitutionality of the territorial legislature's new seizure law.

Spends Large Sums

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—A self-described former Communist party executive told the House Un-American Activities Committee today that the Communist party has spent large sums trying to gain influence in the American labor movement. The witness identified himself as Joseph Zack Kornfeder of Detroit. He said he was a graduate of the Lenin School of Moscow and, among other jobs, was at one time a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the United States.

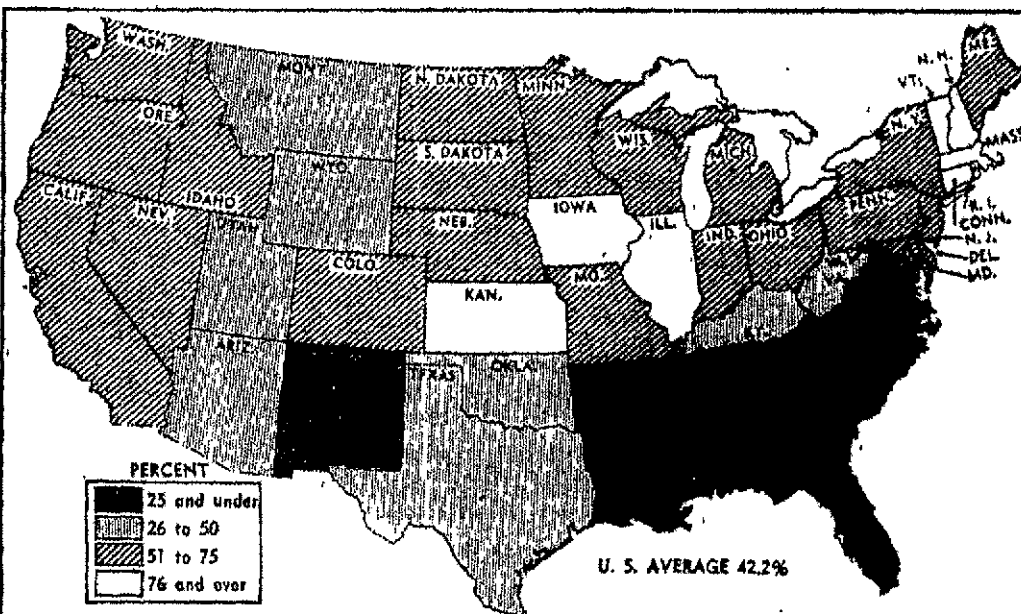

Agrees to Increase

Washington, Aug. 9 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee agreed today to increase the Social Security payroll tax from $1,800,000,000 a year to $2,700,000,000 next year and to about $3,600,000,000 in 1951. The committee also called for further increases in the taxes in 1960, 1965 and 1970 with the rate reaching 3 1/2 per cent as compared with the present one per cent against employer and employee.

Water Main Breaks In Front of Hospital

A water main break in front of the Kingston Hospital interrupted service there for a short time last night as repair work was in progress, the water department reported today.

John J. Byrne, superintendent of the department, said that repair of the break presents a difficult problem and a temporary line hooked up in the back of the city hall will service the hospital and nurses home.

The break in the six inch main discovered last Saturday, is at a point on top of the gas main and below an electric line conduit, the superintendent said.

Service to the hospital was shut off between 7 and 9 p. m. yesterday, but they were prepared for it in the buildings, and it brought no serious handicap in service, the superintendent said.

Workmen were still digging it front of the hospital today to reach the break.

Cars Catch Fire

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Two subway cars caught fire today near the 42nd street and Eighth avenue station of the Independent Subway System, injuring two persons, police said. The Board of Transportation reported that a short circuit was caused when something kept in a refrigerator, the department explained that a cool humidified atmosphere was best for them. "Eggs" said the department, "are like flowers or fruits. They'll wilt if exposed to warm dry air."

Freedom Train Documents Show End of Slavery in 1799

The beginning of the end of slavery in New York came in 1799, documents to be displayed on the New York State Freedom Train when it appears here on August 16 and 17 show.

The first great step was the passage of the "Act for the Gradual Abolition of Slavery" on March 29, of that year although preliminary moves toward abolition were attempted as early as 1679.

At the convention where the first constitution of the state was framed (1776 to 1777), Governor Morris moved that domestic slavery be abolished. But he stated immediate abolition was inexpedient. A resolution to that effect was approved by the convention. Recommendation was made to the Legislature to provide for abolition of slaves as soon as possible. The first constitution made no discrimination among voters on the basis of color. Negroes who had their freedom and other qualifications voted with whites. So there existed the anomaly of free Negroes with the right to vote and Negro slaves who could not vote.

In tracing the history of slavery in New York state before 1799 two other events are prominent.

The first was an act passed in 1785, prohibiting the sale of persons as slaves brought from outside the state for that purpose. The second, also displayed on the Freedom Train in original form, is an essay written by Daniel D. Tompkins, who was then a student at Columbia College, New York city, and who later was elected governor of the state. In his essay he said:

"It would seem that the inhabitants of this country have not that innate love for liberty which many of them profess; otherwise we should not behold our fellow creatures in slavery when it is within our power to relieve them." The essay is dated June 22, 1793, six years before the "beginning of the end of slavery" in 1799.

The 1799 law said in part, "That any child born of a slave within this state after the fourth day of July next, shall be deemed and adjudged free; Provided nevertheless that such child shall be the servant of the legal proprietor of his or her mother until such servant if a male shall arrive at the age of 28 years, and if a female at the age of 25 years."

After this law the movement to abolish slavery progressed remarkably. In 1817, just 18 years later, an act was passed providing for ultimate abolition of slavery July 4, 1827.

In 1821, four years later, at the Constitutional Convention a committee on suffrage decided whether Negroes should be excluded from voting. The decision was a property test for Negroes, which called for three-year residence in the state, plus an estate worth $250.

July 4, 1827, slavery was ended in New York state when Gov. DeWitt Clinton, on Emancipation Day, signed a statute declaring "every person born within this state, whether white or colored, is born free; every person who shall hereafter be born within this state shall be free and every person brought into this state as a slave, except as authorized by this title, shall be free."

Emancipation Day in New York state preceded national emancipation by 36 years, when Lincoln drew up his second proclamation, stating that on Jan. 1, 1863, he would recognize the freedom of the slaves in states in rebellion at the time. Once again, New York state was a leader in the struggle for freedom.

Sues for Divorce

Los Angeles, Aug. 9 (AP)—Band Leader Jimmy Dorsey's wife Jane has sued for divorce after 21 years. She charged cruelty in her complaint, filed yesterday. Under a financial settlement, she gets $850 a month and 25 per cent of any income above $20,000 a year. They have a married daughter, Julia.

Visit the Freedom Train
No state in the Union can claim a prouder heritage of freedom than New York. Today, perhaps more than ever before, it is important that that heritage be passed on to the next generation unimpaired. The Kingston Daily Freeman is happy to cooperate with the New York State Freedom Train Commission in bringing to Kingston on August 16 and 17 the great documents of our state and national history.

Cousin DAZZLE Says
"Little strokes fell great oaks" says Poor Richard's Almanac and I find that's a great inspiration in planning my housework.
Instead of looking at the whole day's work I just consider the first job to do. Pretty soon the whole day's work is finished and I'm happy as a lark and not one bit tired. I find that by doing my laundry three times weekly I get it done easier.
For easy bleaching, even when the sun doesn't come out, I use Dazzle Bleach. You can buy it at all good grocery stores. Follow the directions on the label and you'll be proud of the dazzling white wash you get without any hard scrubbing.
And when it comes to ironing that wash, take my advice and get Dazzle's new Liquid Starch. It's wonderful because it eliminates cooking, bluing and waxing. It's all ready to use — just add water. You'll be delighted by the easy way it slides your iron through a big wash. And all your starched things will look levelier than ever.

I like to listen to small boys talk. "Take it easy, Joe" said one as he and his playmate parted for the night. "You ain't kidding, Ray" replied the other little man. What a lesson for us older folks. Take it easy, Mother, and remember that "Little strokes fell great oaks."

AT HOME CARDS
A prospective bride writes "Isn't it curious to send at home cards with our wedding invitations when people live too far away to pay us visits? If they are sent anyway, then please give the proper wording for them."

"At Home" cards are enclosed, if necessary, to provide an address for those who may want to write you as well as go to see you. When they are sent with the invitations, the form is:

At Home after the first of July 900 Fuller Avenue Far Town
Tippling at Hotel
Dear Mrs. Post: When staying at a resort hotel where everything is included in the weekly bill, how is the tipping taken care of? Should a percentage be added to this amount and the total given at the office, with the extra amount designated for service. Or is it better to take care of the individuals ourselves?

Answer: Give the money personally to those who have waited on you. If you are making a long stay, tip them once a week—if a short one, the day you leave.

Birthstone for Engagement
Dear Mrs. Post: My sister preferred a sapphire (her birthstone) ring for an engagement ring. But she's hurt and disappointed that her friends don't suspect it is an engagement ring. She has to tell everyone. Is it unusual to have a birthstone instead of a diamond? Answer: A birthstone has been considered suitable for a far longer time than a diamond. In other words, the diamond solitaire has come into prominence in fairly recent years.

Bulletin Board Invitation
Dear Mrs. Post: My husband says that many wedding invitations are posted on the bulletin board of his company. He seems to think this also includes me and other wives (or husbands). I say it does not include anyone who has no connection with the company. We always argue about this. Please settle it.
Answer: Ordinarily, you would be right—unless it is customary in his particular company to give each employee the privilege to bring his wife or husband.

Wedding invitations and announcements vary according to the type of wedding planned. Mrs. Post's new booklet, B-10, gives the forms and other information about weddings. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry that she cannot answer personal mail. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Offers $100 Reward
No trace of her fan wallet with $800 in it has turned up for Mrs. Joseph Moore of 9 Ten Broeck avenue, she said today as she offered a reward of $100 for its return. Mrs. Moore told a reporter she lost the wallet in or near the A & P store on Prince street on August 4. Loss of the wallet with $800 she drew out of the bank to pay for painting materials used by her husband, a local contractor, and streptococcus, was given wide publicity, but no clues have developed as to anybody having found it.

Colonials Edge Poughkeepsie Chiefs, 5-3; Bristol Owls Here Tonight

Four-Run Rally Gives Victory To Frank Demeri

Al Ferony Returns To Local Roster

Changes in ownership and new faces in the lineup are nice window dressing to be sure, but the Poughkeepsie Chiefs are still the best tonic for our Colonials.

The Bridge City baseball neighbors moved into town for a brief stay last night, graciously tossed a 5-3 victory in our lap and then silently stole away.

The rebuilding movement featured the return of Al Ferony, who finished the 1948 season at third, and Thomas "Buddy" Mahan, a left handed outfielder who has played in the league with Port Chester and New Brunswick.

Al Ferony's return made the prodigal son look like a hum. He whacked three solid singles and drew a walk and was adequate in the field. Mahan, a long ball hitter, was inserted into the cleanup spot and puffed through a "B" for "O" night.

A four-run rally in the fourth off Joe Bellucci, the Poughkeepsie righty who resembles a piano mover, cinched the contest and gave Frank Demeri his ninth win of the season, although he needed able assistance from Harold Catadul.

The contest dragged through two hours and a half of desultory action spiced by arguments and rhabarbs. This man, Gabe Mauro, of Poughkeepsie, is crowding Stamford's Joe Glenn for jarring honors in the league.

Four-Run Rally

Poughkeepsie picked up single tallies in the first and second to lead 2-0 until the fourth, when Ralph Matzer walked and Ferony singled to center to launch the Colonial rally. Joe Zuck booted Carl Anstett's grounder for a 2-1 score.

Pluchino attempted to pick Ferony off third and hit him on the shoulder blade to knot the count at 2-2. Demeri walked and Bellucci walked. Thommer's rap to third was deep enough to score Anstett and Danny Perlmutter drilled a single through short to score Demeri.

Kingston's fifth run was the result of singles by Matzer, Ferony and Anstett fashioned around a DP in the seventh. Eddie Falska's double which Perlmutter played into a triple and "Digger" O'Dell's infield out produced Poughkeepsie's third tally in the seventh.

COLONIAL CAPERS: Colonials don't have to worry about "Red" Graham in the series that opens tonight. Mario Perez, third sacker, joined Joe Abreu and Jim Gordon among the permanent absentees yesterday.

Al Ferony's arrival surprised everyone. The locals were dicker for Tony Russo, exiled Stamford third sacker, but the deal fell through. "Buddy" Mahan who plays with the Queens Club, a topnotch semi-pro outfit, spelled the tired and injured Johnny Blenchin in right field. Blenchin has a bad hip. Danny Perlmutter delivered three singles in to three different sectors of the field. Gabe Mauro protested violently on a ruling that gave John Pluchino a double when his long shot in the second rolled under the fence in deep center. Mauro claimed that the ball was kicked under the snow fence. The league splurged and presented three umpires for the first time. Mahan had a bad night but has a good reputation as a hitter and his first effort was a smash to deep center. Carl Anstett pulls a ball sharply as anybody in the league. Behind the scene's activity is still furious. A new first baseman and outfielder reported on the way.

WALKING ON AIR

That's how Charley Lupica, Cleveland's flag-pole sitter, felt when told he had another son, Charley, Jr., who weighed in at seven pounds, one ounce. Lupica climbed to his 20-foot perch ten weeks ago and vowed not to come down till the Cleveland Indians gained first place. He has three other children. (AP Wirephoto)

Crack Fillies Given Hambletonian Chance

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 9 (AP)—The gents may have to take their hats off to the ladies in the 24th Hambletonian Stake here tomorrow for exactly half of the expected 18 starters are fillies.

And don't think the roiling gals haven't had a lot to say about harness racing's blue ribbon classic in the past. Seven of the weaker sex have grabbed the event since it was started in 1926. Only one filly, Regret, has won the Kentucky Derby in 75 years.

While most of the attention in the filly ranks has gone to Martha Doyle and Miss Tilly, a late comer, had the folks around Good Time Park taking second looks today.

She is Rosamond, a chestnut beauty owned by Gib White of Leghinton, Ky.

"Rosamond has a good chance," said White, who owned the filly Rosalind, 1936 Hambletonian winner. Rosamond is a daughter of Rosalind, who polished off nine rivals to grab the honors 13 years ago in two straight heats with a snappy clocking of 2:01 3/5 for the mile swing around the kite shaped track.

"She went better than we thought at Old Orchard Beach, Me., and seems to be sharp right now," said White, who will drive Rosamond.

Bangaway still rules the choice of most observers hereabouts. The Toledo, Ohio, colt owned by C. M. Saunders is reported in top form for the event, which will gross $65,500 if all 18 start.

Considerable support will go to Martha Doyle, roan filly owned by A. L. Derby of Wichita, Kas. Derby sent out Yankee Maid, last filly to cop the Hambletonian in 1944.

Entire proceeds of the contest will go to the junior baseball fund of the Kingston Athletic Association.

Jordan Blanks Stauble Bakery For Chezzies on Three Hits, 8-0

Gill Batting Star For Runnersup

Chezzies' Lefty Joe Jordan joined the City League's coterie of kalsomine artists last night when he three-hit Stauble's Bakery into an 8-0 setback at the Athletic Field.

The willowy southpaw scattered three singles while Chezzies raked Ernie McCormick for a dozen safeties, including three doubles and a couple of triples.

The victory enabled Chezzies to retain second place in the standings a half game ahead of Morgan's Restaurant.

A four-run rally in the fourth was the deciding issue, although the single tally picked by Chezzies in the first eventually proved sufficient to win.

Gill on Spruce
Bob Gill enjoyed a batting spree with a triple and two singles, while Red Sagendorf banged a pair of doubles. Joe Shattan and Ken Lowie each hit safely twice.

In the Chezzies' fourth, Sagendorf's double, a wild pitch and error followed by singles off the bats of Lowie, Glaser, Gill and Lindhurst and a hit batsman accounted for the quartet of tallies.

Shattan's triple won a smoking stand donated by Stock and Cordts, while Gill earned four tickets to the 9W drive-in donated by Bob Case. Jordan's shutout won for him $5 in sporting goods merchandise donated by Waverly Smith.

Tommy Fisher of the Jones Dairy will pitch against the Colonial Merchants' Vince Clearwater in today's game.

Runs batted in: Glaser, Gill, Scheffel, Lindhurst, Sagendorf, Shattan, Lowie. Two-base hits: Scheffel, Sagendorf 2. Three-base hits: Shattan, Gill. Stolen bases: Olen, Gill, Lowie. Sacrifices: Felipe.

Double plays: McCormick-Olen-Scheffel. Bases on balls: McCormick 3, Jordan 1. Strike-outs: McCormick 4, Jordan 4. Hit by pitcher: By McCormick, Scheffel. Wild pitches: McCormick. Winning pitcher: Jordan. Losing pitcher:

McCormick, Umpires: Prucnal and Schwab. Score: E. Murphy, Time 1:50.

To Try Channel Swim

Cap Gris-Nez, France, Aug. 9 (AP)—Jose Cortinas, 32-year-old Cuban swimmer, makes his bid to swim the English Channel tonight. Cortinas has been waiting several days for favorable weather and channel conditions. He planned to start at eight p. m. (2 p. m., E.S.T.). Cortinas' followers believe he has an excellent chance of becoming the 28th swimmer to conquer the channel since the last bid in 1875.

Greenland Dogs Feared

Copenhagen (AP)—The Greenland commission of the Danish parliament, which will visit Greenland this summer, has been warned not to go there unarmed. An official announcement called on the members to take big wooden clubs with them. The authorities are not afraid of hostile Greenlanders, but of wild dogs in the northernmost settlements.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

By JOE REICHLER

Enos (Country) Slaughter, the St. Louis Cardinals' "ball player," is a living proof that baseball experts are a funny race. In pre-season polls, the majority of scribes ignored St. Louis as a pennant threat because the Cards "were too old." Thus, without saying so, they pointed a finger at Slaughter, who at 33, was the oldest regular on the club.

Today, these same experts predicted that the Cards will win the National League flag. Why? Because of the presence of this same Enos Slaughter.

Has Big Night

Enos enjoyed one of his biggest "days" last night when he walked two home runs and drove in six runs to lead the Cards to a 9-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Redbirds needed the triumph to maintain their first place in the National League. The Cards already had won the New York Giants 2-1. The two contenders started the evening's activities deadlocked for the lead. Those were the only games played in the majors. Slaughter's one-man foray enabled Howie Pollet to register his 15th victory although he was touched up for a dozen hits. The Cards could get only five safeties off loser Kent Peterson and three successors, but took advantage of seven bases on balls.

Newcombe Steps Giants

Big Don Newcombe pitched one of the best games of the year in subduing the Giants with four hits, for his 11th victory. The giant Negro righthander had a three-hit shutout until the ninth when Whitey Lockman sent his first serve over the right field screen to spoil the shut-out bid.

Jackie Robinson was the big gun for the Dodgers. He slashed his 13th homer in the second and set the stage for the winning run in the eighth with a single that sent Carl Furillo to third. With the bases loaded and two out, loser Dave Koslo walked, pinch hitter Bruce Edwards to force Furillo over the plate.

The Red Sox, set back temporarily by Sunday's defeat at the hands of the Detroit Tigers after seven straight wins, will be out to make up a six and a half game deficit.

Charles 5-18 Choice Over Gus Lesnevich

New York, Aug. 9 (AP)—Ezzard Charles, heavyweight champion in 47 of 48 states, will try to win over a skeptical New York in his first N.B.A. title defense tomorrow night against battle-scarred Gus Lesnevich at Yankee Stadium.

This is the big one for the lean negro from Cincinnati, who hasn't been overly impressive in his showings here and who still is denied recognition by Col. Edward Egan and his New York Athletic Commission.

An emphatic triumph over the former light heavyweight titleholder from Cliffside Park, N. J., might change some minds. While the principals of the heavyweight title clash were going through final rehearsals, the boys in the front offices were trying to grab some clarity from Bruce Woodcock's double talk in England.

The British heavyweight champion, who had been scheduled to meet Lee Savold in London next month for the British version of the world heavyweight title, gave out conflicting statements that he might retire and that he wouldn't.

He at first said that he was seriously thinking about "packing in the game." Later he was quoted as saying he would go on with the Savold fight if the doctor said it was okay.

Charles is a 5 to 18 favorite over Gus who is bordering on 35. The fight will be broadcast but there will be no television of the promoters said.

Montanans Win Fight Over Fire

Helena, Mont., Aug. 9 (AP)—Man was winning his fight today against a fire that has killed 13 persons and devastated 6,000 woodland acres.

The flames were being checked by 500 men, tired and grimy after a four-day struggle. A. D. Mohr, Helena national forest supervisor, said the blaze should be 100 per cent controlled by tomorrow.

A final three miles of fireline will be built today, Mohr said. Mop-up work, in this case one of the toughest phases of the battle, began last night as crews worked portions of the fire's extreme edges.

The fatigued Montana crews pressed toward control of the fire in the gates of the mountains forest, 25 miles northeast of Helena. Equally tired fighters battled an explosive timber fire in the Payette National Forest on Idaho's Salmon river.

Payette forest supervisor John T. Mathews had close to 600 men on the 3,000 to 4,000-acre fire. Calling it a tough situation, he said. "We're pretty well organized but the wind and the weather conditions are against us."

Other crews yesterday mastered a blaze which burned over 2,400 acres of timber land in the Boise National Forest northeast of Idaho City. No serious injuries were reported in either fire.

B. N. McFeeley Dies; Ex-Mayor of Hoboken

Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 9 (AP)—Bernard N. McFeeley, whose 17-year reign as Democratic mayor of Hoboken was broken by a Fusion ticket sweep in 1947, died last night in his sleep.

An intimate friend of former Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, McFeeley helped produce the large Hudson county Democratic majorities which for many years were deciding factors in state elections.

McFeeley had been ill for a long time. At his bedside when the former mayor died in his home were a sister, Mrs. Anna Walsh, and a nephew, Joseph B. McFeeley.

4 Plead Innocent To Swindle Charge

New York, Aug. 9 (Special)—Vincent Angeloni, 48, of the Shady Grove Hotel, Haines Falls, and three other men indicted July 29 for the alleged diversion of $2,500,000 in fine gold to the European black market pleaded innocent to the charges in Federal Court here Monday before Judge Louis G. Porterie. Trial was set for September 7.

One of those indicted, Achille Parrilla, who was arrested in Tannersville on April 23rd, allegedly obtained a license to buy fine gold from the Treasury Department on his representation that he manufactured rings, bracelets and watch cases. Actually, the government contends, he had taken over part of the Haines Falls man's jewelry-manufacturing plant at 49 West 27th street,

New York, but did not have the equipment to make the items he named.

Parrilla allegedly used Angeloni and the two others named to buy gold which was then diverted to the black market.

3,000 Employees Idle

Akron, O., Aug. 9 (AP)—Firestone Tire & Rubber Company's 3,000 employees at Plant No. 1 were idle today after six men walked off their jobs in protest against pay rates and duty assignments. A spokesman for Firestone Local 7 of the C.I.O. United Rubber Workers said the walkout was unauthorized. The six who left their jobs were employed in a compounding room.
